'On Location' implies a cinematic timelessness for Las Vegas. Black half tone images derived from photos taken during location shooting for the film Diamonds Are Forever (1971) include the apparatus of filmmaking. The locations pictured include the Hilton Hotel (formerly the International Hotel), the Landmark Hotel and Casino, and the dome of the original Las Vegas Convention Center, all of which were near the location of the new shelters. The pastel background patterns are based on the artist's photographs of ornamental block walls in nearby 60's era neighborhoods.
